First Carnival, Queen Selection Set For Tonight

A queen for Kentucky's initial Carnival will be chosen by popular vote at tonight's Gymkana-Pep Rally. It was announced late yesterday by Jim Wine, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, co-sponsor of the event with SuK ycircle.

Insofar as it is known, Wine said, the crowd selected will be the first Homecoming Queen in the history of the University. The name of the Queen will be announced and she will be informally presented at sometime during the Gymkana program tonight, and will be formally presented to the homecoming crowd between halves of tomorrow's football game.

Candidates for the post, who were nominated yesterday afternoon by members of ODK, are Margaret Trent, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Louise Weisenberger, Chi Omega; Jean Elliott, Delta Delta Delta; Peggy Denny, Independent; Alma Barnard, Zeta Tau Alpha; Billie Raymond, Kappa Delta; Dorothy

No Politics Here
Each ticket holder will be entitled to vote in the election. Wine announced, and will write the name of his or her choice on the back of the ticket, which will be taken up at the door.

The reason CDK has withheld announcement of the Homecoming Queen election until today was to prevent the entrance of fraternity and sorority politics and coalitions into the contest. Wine explained last night when contacted by a Kernel reporter. "As it is," he added, "we believe the election will be fairer to all concerned."

Show Begins At 7:30
Making its first appearance on this campus, the Gymkana troupe from the University of Illinois, will open the initial Kentucky Homecoming Carnival at 7:30 tonight in the Alumni gym. Immediately following this program, SuKy will sponsor a pep rally featuring a jumpy contest and a parade downtown.

The "Best Band in Dixie" will open the Gymkana Shows by playing in gay Medley of Southeastern Conference songs and a one and one-quarter hour of stunts and dances by the Gymkana troupe will follow.

Notables Slated
The pep rally, which follows the gymnastic show, will find Governor Keen Johnson, Acting President Cooper, Coach Frank Thomas, Coach Kirwan and Athletic Director Bernie Shively on the program. Sam Ewing, SuKy president, will start the program by introducing Dr. Cooper who in turn will introduce Governor Johnson.

Supplemented by cheers, the playing of the "Best Band in Dixie," and introduction of the Cats, the rally will be broadcast over WLAP.

Included in the parade downtown, immediately following the indoor part of the rally, will be a "Jalopy" contest. The funniest and worst-looking "wreck" will be awarded a prize of $5.00 with the winner being announced at the Homecoming Dance Saturday night in the Union building. Special permission was obtained, from city officials, so that the parade might be held downtown.

Enterprises from Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Chi, Phi Kappa Tau, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Phi already have been received. All entries are requested to be at the gym at 9:15 tonight.

Court Is Packed

The old adage "like father like son" was again proved Wednesday, when federal District Court Clerk A. B. Rouse swore in his son, Arthur B. Rouse, Jr., to practice before the federal bar.

Young Rouse, who recently passed the state bar association exam, is a student in the law college. He was introduced by Ben L. Kessinger, assistant district attorney.

Injury-Riddled Wildcats To Face Tide Of 'Bama Tomorrow On Stoll Field, Highlighting Activity-Filled Weekend

BUSY WEEKEND ON TAP FOR GRADS

Governor, Other Notables To Greet Returning Alumni

When the Alabama Red Elephants piled off the train at the Southern station at 5:25 this morning, it was the signal for the beginning of the week-end homecoming game activity.

Meeting the Alabama team as it left the train were members of SuKy. University pep organization, who accompanied the visiting team to their headquarters in the Lafayette hotel. Here the 'Bama team was given breakfast and a short rest.

At 9:30, the visiting team will be guests of SuKy on a bus tour of stock farms and other scenic spots in the Bluegrass. During the tour, the 50 players will see the Whitney, Elmendorf, Dixiana, and Spindle Top farms. Man O' War and the University campus will also be seen during the tour.

The Gymkana show and pep rally in the Alumni Gym will continue the homecoming program tonight. The show will start at 7:30.

Highlighting the homecoming events Saturday morning will be the decoration contest sponsored by SuKy.

All fraternities and sororities will decorate the yards of their houses for the judging which will begin at 11 o'clock. Trophies will be awarded both the fraternity and sorority contest winner.

Judges will be John Hambleton, University graduate and designer of theater sets in New York; E. Reed Wilson, former mayor of Lexington; L. T. Iglehart, University graduate and employee of the Lexington Herald; and Mrs. A. B. Chandler.

Prizes will be awarded on the humor, originality, and method of presentation of each decoration. No definite theme is to be followed in the contest.

Billy Jackson, in charge of the decoration arrangements, will present the trophies to the winners at Saturday night's Alumni dance. Registration of alumni will take place Saturday morning from 9 to 12:30 at (Continued on Page Five)

ALUMNI PRES. CUTLER

For returning Alumni, a handshake, a smile, and a friendly greeting.

Welcome Alumni!

I am glad to extend through THE KERNEL a welcome to all alumni, their families and friends who return to the campus Saturday. The University of Kentucky owes much to its alumni. It is through each of you that it is represented to the State.

Staff and students are happy that you have returned for this annual occasion.

THOMAS COOPER
Acting President

To The Alumni:

Greetings and a hearty welcome from the more than 4,000 students and members of the University staff, as you return tomorrow for the annual Homecoming.

As you walk again the hallowed paths of the campus, greet old friends, make new ones, and participate in the whirl wind of events, from registration downtown to the Gymkana performance and pep rally, to gaily-bedecked houses for luncheon, to the game itself, to the Alumni reception, and finally to the Homecoming dance, may your visit remain a pleasant memory, and may you come again.

Good wishes for fair weather, a great game, and the best of everything.

THOMAS H. CUTLER
President of the Association

TIDE FAVORED TO BEAT CATS

Elephants Said To Be In Better Physical Condition

A despondent air penetrated Kentucky's camp as their chances of absorbing Alabama's Crimson Tide tomorrow on Stoll field in the twentieth reunion of one of the South's oldest gridiron rivalries, began to look slimmer and slimmer.

Coach Ab Kirwan's high powered football machine took on the appearance of a battered jalopy this week when several of his important cogs failed to respond to hospital treatment. When game time rolls around at 2 p. m. tomorrow at least two Kentucky linemen will be sidelined with injuries. Captain John Eibner and "Sully" Jacobs, both seniors who would have played their last game on Stoll field, are both definitely out of tomorrow's classic with wrenched knees. Full-back Claude Hammonds and probably quarterback Dave Brown will join the two tackles on the sidelines.

Lost To Vols
The tide, after whipping out impressive victories against their warm-up foes, dropped a 27-14 decision against Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee eleven. After resting up last week with an open date, the Southerners are reported to be in top form and are eagerly awaiting an opportunity to avenge the 7-7 tie that Kentucky held them to last season.

Coach Frank Thomas boasts a line that averages 207 pounds, which is about ten pounds more than the Cats will weigh in at. The smallest man of the 'Bama's starring line is Holt Rash, who tips the scales at 180.

Thomas "number-two" backfield averages slightly better than 185 and in it are two of the South's most publicized backs, "Pounding" Paul Spencer and Jimmy Nelson. Spencer's chief claim to fame against the Cats was his touchdown jaunt against Kirwan's crew that knotted the score last season. Nelson, a speedster by claim, was forced to do the heavy chores last season when he was converted into a blocking back. Coach Thomas moved the versatile Nelson back into his running position this year and he has turned in a creditable performance in every game.

One Kentuckian Listed
The lone Kentuckian on the Tide's squad is big burly Fred Davis, one of Ab Kirwan's proteges when he tutored at Louisville Manual, Davis, who is co-captain of the Southerners, always loves to come back and play against a team coached by the studious Ab Kirwan.

Two of his former running mates when he was playing under Ab Kirwan at Manual, Junie Jones and Allan Parr, will try to give the 240 pound tackle a "heartly welcome home" in the Kirwan manner. (Continued on page 1 Section II)

Rodes, UK Star In 1915-16, Taught Fundamentals To Ab

The 'Black Doc' Was Great Kicker, Passer, Runner

By JOHN CARRICO

"I don't care what you say about me, just so you let it be known that I'm the guy who induced Kirwan to play football for Kentucky, and I'm the one who coached him in his freshman year and showed him the fundamentals of the game."

You'd think that an achievement like that would be fame enough for one man. Ordinarily, this might be the case; but, fellow, you don't know "Doc" Rodes.

The name of "Black Doc" Rodes probably is unfamiliar to most students today, but if you were to ask some of the homecomers about him, you'd hear the story of one of the best quarterbacks who ever called signals for the Wildcats.

His Heyday In '15
"Doc's heyday was in 1915 and 1916, back in the days when the South Limestone school was Kentucky State university and the Southeastern conference was a coach's goodnight prayer. All through the 1915 season the victories of the Kentucky team were Rodes triumphs.

Against Sewanee he had dislocated his shoulder early in the first quarter but he played well into the second period before he fainted and was taken from the game.

The shoulder healed in time, however, for "Doc" to kick two field goals, one 45 yards and the other 43 yards, to defeat Tennessee 6-0. In this game he personally gained 150 yards against the Vols.

Scores 25 Points
Then came 1916. Kentuckians were oblivious to the rumble overseas; they heard only the pounding of Rodes' cleats. "Black Doc" opened the season by scoring three touchdowns and kicking seven extra points in swamping Centre 68-0. To show that Noah Mullins has no monopoly on such accomplishments, "Doc" ran a kickoff 70 yards to score.

Butler was the next victim to feel the shock of Rodes. In absorbing a 39-3 defeat, they watched him cross the goal-line three times and kick three extra points.

A superior Vanderbilt team then handed Kentucky its first loss. In beating the Wildcats, 45-0, they mopped up everything but Rodes. He was the individual star of the fray, returning a kickoff 50 yards but being brought down before reaching the goal-line.

In a 6-0 tie with Sewanee he again was the offensive star. The press, describing the game, was very enthusiastic in praise of Rodes. In the Wildcats' next encounter, with Cincinnati, he made two touchdowns, with the final score standing at 32-0.

Kentucky Is Underdog
After defeating Mississippi A. & M. 13-3, with Rodes again scoring a touchdown, the long-awaited battle with Tennessee arrived. Kentucky was considered the underdog and was barely given an outside chance to defeat the Vols.

After thoroughly outplaying Tennessee, the Wildcats had to be contented with a scoreless tie and a moral victory. Rodes' playing was the outstanding feature of the tilt. He picked up an apparent fumble and raced 60 yards to score; but the referee called the play an incomplete pass, and Rodes' beautiful run went for naught.

Enlisted In Army
The next year "Black Doc" was a senior. In spring, however, when war was declared on Germany, Doc's athletic career came to an end as he enlisted. He went overseas and rose to the rank of Captain. After the war he married, returned to Lexington and became a successful businessman, the qualities of leadership which he developed on the gridiron serving him ably in his profession.

In case you're wondering how William Rodes received the title "Black Doc", the story is this: his cousin also played football for Kentucky; his complexion was reddish, while "Doc's" was dark. To distinguish the two, "Red Doc" and "Black Doc" were invented.

Doc isn't one of those steadfast old-timers who bemoan the fact that "football isn't what it used to be." He believes that football is still practically the same, but the training program has been intensified and the game has become almost a ten-month proposition.

Just because Rodes made 64 points in one season and was the individual star of his team, doesn't make him the best, some might say. But the story can't be told in cold figures. It was his all-around playing that has made him such a legendary figure. He could run, pass, punt, and place kick—all with equal ability. His quality of leadership has already been mentioned.

His affability, good nature, and humor, fired a team that might be content with renewed vigor. It was these very traits that won him a berth on an all-Kentucky team chosen by Kentucky coaches (a distinctive honor in those days).

So tomorrow, when homecomers will see Alabama and Kentucky meet, the "Doc" will be there, mentally throwing every pass, kicking every punt, and scoring every touchdown.

Davis Will Lead The Other Team

Back in 1937 Fred Davis, Louisville, Alabama's tackle candidate for All-American honors, directed Coach Ab Kirwan's Louisville Manual high school team in many a victory. This Saturday on Stoll field, Davis will be out there directing again. Kirwan's team will be there, and another victory will be the goal.

But this time Davis will be directing the opponents of his former coach. For the big, bruising tackle has been chosen special captain to replace Hal Newman regular captain, for this one game against his former coach and native Kentuckians.

Player's Chins Were Bearded For Alabama Game In 1930

By BOB AMMONS

Lexington barbers are glad that one Kentucky tradition has passed away... because the custom of the football team's going shaveless for a week before an important game once put the local brush and razor brigade on starvation wages for about ten days.

That was in 1930, when the University's No. 1 homecoming of recent years was held. Memories of that bewhiskered event never fail to crop up when students of a decade ago gather.

Both Teams Undefeated
The setting for the big homecoming was ideal—Alabama and Kentucky, both undefeated and both rumored to have "Rose Bowl teams," were to meet on Stoll field for what was to indicate the probable supremacy of the Southeastern Conference. Reports were that the Tide and the Wildcats both had power-houses, and Kentucky was given a good chance to take their second win in ten meetings with the Alabama team.

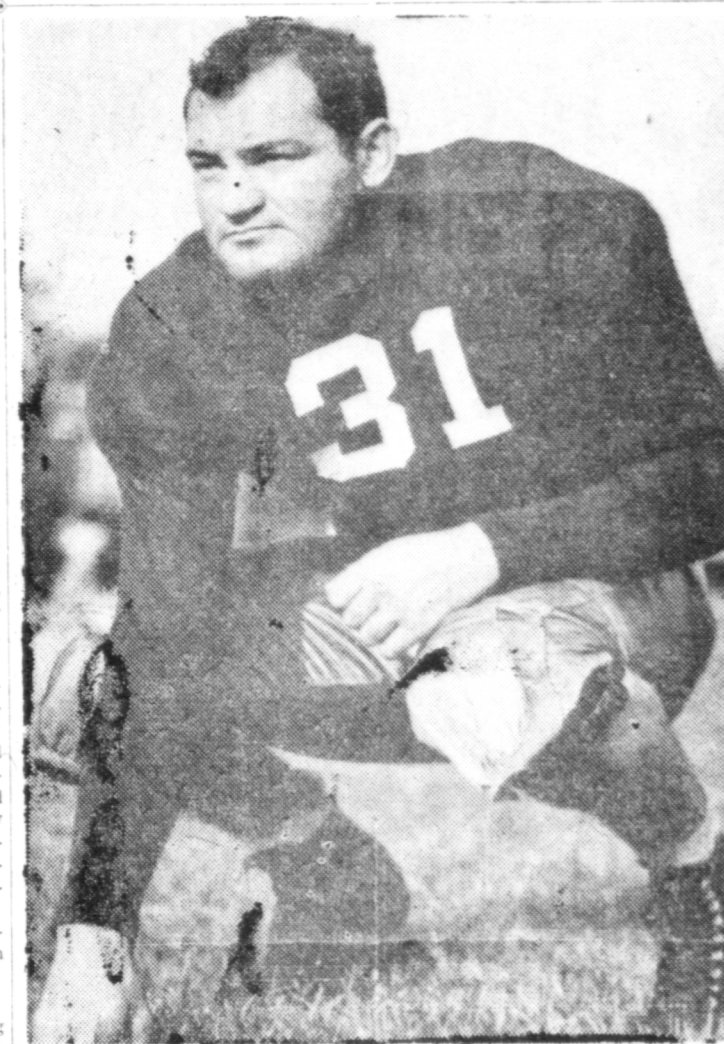

Some observers favored the Wildcats on the basis of their 37-0 victory over Sewanee (Alabama only reached 25-0), their season total of 174 points in four games (Alabama had scored 162 in five), and the presence of "Shipwreck" Kelly in the backfield. Scouts of Grantland Rice were to be in the stadium to report Kelly's All-American possibilities.

With such a setting, the University football spirit rolled into high gear.

Beard Prize Offered

A University custom, originating back there when football teams played without shoulder pads and headgear, decreed that the grid squad go without shaving before at least one game each season, and the Wildcats chose the Alabama game for their shaveless one of 1930.

Given impetus by the SuKy contest offering a valuable razor and the honor of shaving before a Pathe cameraman between halves to the student with the longest beard, the non-shave habit soon swept the campus. Almost every one of the 2,000 male students appeared with chin-foliage within a few days.

On Friday night before the game, the finals of the SuKy contest were held at a mammoth pep rally, with about 25 men presenting their chins for inspection. Harold S. Ray, Independence, and Paul Howard, Howardstown, were named winner and runner up, and a special barber and barber chair were obtained for the shaving ceremony. The homecoming celebration was perfect. The shaving program between halves and the colorful ceremonies were impressive. Major Dick Redd, 84 year old Confederate veteran, rode up and down the sidelines on a prancing horse, waving his saber.

We Become Aware Of An Election

With the Presidential campaigners driving the home stretch and UK students at last beginning to break out in a rash of party buttons, we feel the time has about come for THE KERNEL to make official recognition of the fact that the country has an election coming up next week.

Our silence up to now has not been due to any indifference toward the matter, but rather because we have felt that in matters political it is the duty of the college newspaper to be discreetly non-partisan. And since there has been little said and done until recently that could be commented on with even a pretense at disinterest, we have sat tight on the lid of non-recognition.

However, a few things have occurred during the past week or so which must bring us — because we are a member of the nation's press and therefore one of its Guardians of the Truth — down out of our ivory tower resolved to "strike a few blows for liberty."

First of all: the good. The campaign, up to now, happily has not brought on very much bitterness and resulted in the disastrous national schism which people last June said it would. The nation is as self-conscious about the Fascist menace as ever, and the populace just about as unanimous in its simultaneous awe of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson — despite the fact that these two men were about as widely differing a pair of political theorists the U. S. has ever had.

On the whole, then, one might say the campaign has proved a rather pleasant surprise.

But there are some things about the current race which embarrass us, and a few which are actually frightening. They are dirty and cowardly in kind, and should they heighten over the week-end, they might actually wipe out all the unity the nation has maintained during the summer and fall.

Though the majority of these juvenilities seem to have been perpetrated by political managers of the ward-heeler breed, at least one has come from the ranks of the people themselves. We have in mind particularly the bombardment of both major candidates (as well as the small-fry campaigners) with eggs and fruit and vegetables — and the evident unconcernedness of the culprits who threw them. Such actions indicate, we believe, a frightful disrespect for high office and a disregard for the fundamental democratic principle of free speech. It is of such stuff that Fascists are made, and against such antics the oft-misused charge "un-American" can be truthfully made.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie are standing for the Presidency of the United States, an office which embodies the nation's 130,000,000 people, and they are entitled to the public treatment that office would imply. When that populace comes to regard the Presidency as nothing more than a target for groups of vegetable-slinging hoodlums, then we are tempted to wonder whether the political inoculations of the Jeffersons, Jacksons, and Lincolns have "taken" after all.

And accompanying these bombardments of citrus hand-grenades have been deluges of cries that the particular candidate opposed would, if elected, purge the country of all democratic principles, and would become the First American Dictator. These screams, likewise emanating mostly from ward-heeler ranks, are likewise too stupid even to consider. Both President Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie have long since proved themselves thoroughly sold on the democratic principle, and it is childishness to presume that either would think of sending out squads of storm troopers on or after Inauguration Day.

Although every presidential campaign in our history has seen such things happen, we had held hopes that the seriousness of the times would somehow have a sobering effect on the nation, would make the people conscious of the necessity for setting a truly democratic example for the rest of the world. And in such an endeavor, there certainly would be no place for egg-tossing and epithet-hurling.

But we suppose—even viewing all this—there must be some consolation in the knowledge that what has come about is slightly better than what was earlier expected; and with this rationalization for comfort we crawl back into bed to sleep, like the groundhog, until the whole thing blows over.

Calling Attention To Some Improvements

We were rather pleased the other morning to see that they had begun building some cement walks fanning out in front of the Union building. And then, upon closer scrutiny of the campus as a whole, we discovered that there have been quite a number of pavements laid over the place during the past year—and again we were pleasantly surprised.

We suppose the blinding detachment that every collegian has was responsible for our not seeing these things before, but now that we finally have seen them, we'd like to say we appreciate them. It is good always to have concrete under your feet on wet days, and not have to be tempted to veer off into the grassy places when you are running behind schedule.

In case any of the rest of you have noticed these things and wonder who was responsible for them, we point the finger of gratitude at Mr. N. R. Elliott and his committee for the beautification of grounds. It's a really good job they've done and are doing.

University of Michigan that you cannot be re-admitted to the University."

This brief note came as a complete surprise to the recipients as there had been no previous formal warning. The letter neglected to state what officials had made the decision, nor did it cite the facts on which the decision was based.

Confining ourselves first to President Ruthven's commencement statement, we should like to have his definition of two things. First, what is his definition of "freedom of the press"? Second, what is his definition of "freedom of speech"?

By press freedom, perhaps Mr. Ruthven means the publication of material that is free from criticism of any established American institution. By free speech he probably means any speech that is in agreement with his own. And if that is the case, it appears that President Ruthven himself is "confused by sophistries built around meaningful but ill-defined phrases."

We students, President Ruthven, are alike all over the country. Yours is not the only institution at which there has been objection and criticism to the established order. On every campus in America there are those who are fighting for what they believe to be just, for what they want freedom of speech and freedom of press to mean. And to almost every student, press freedom and speech freedom mean but one thing . . . complete freedom; not halfway, not three-quarters of the way, President Ruthven, but all the way, because we do believe that "democracy is the ideal form of government for a civilized people."

Homecoming: Kentucky's Wildcat At His Hospitable Best

The Vice Of The People

By MARIANNE HEWITT and JOHN SPICER

Larry Garland seems to have acquired a sudden and intense admiration for horseback riding—especially at night. A date for such an excursion must increase the aesthetic value, or something if a date just doesn't take the attitude that it's a new name for an old, old story.

It was noted with great rejoicing that Jim McGraw is no longer a Delt pledge. Came last Sunday he advanced into the rank of full initiate. Naturally enough, the next issue that arises is how long will it be before Dot Beeler sports his new shiny hardware.

Congratulations to Chi Omega Lyl Warwick, and best wishes for a wonderful time this week-end. She leads the figure at Davidson for the Fall Dances.

Senior Writes Fiery Message To 'War Mongers'

To the Editor of The Kernel:

To the chest-beating, hair-pulling fanatics of power politics, petty nationalism, and screwball imperialism, as well as their fellow travelers and henchmen, who would have this country declare war on Germany, I submit a statement about your plans by the very respectable citizen, the right Honorable Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana:

"Constantly, we hear the cry—give—don't sell—the Allies planes and guns. Let us analyze this idea a moment . . .

"It is one thing for you as an individual to give the Allies all your money and all your property but quite different for us as a government to do the same thing. When the government takes such a step it is tantamount to a declaration of war. Many well-meaning people want the Government to do this, not realizing its implications—others want to prey upon your credulity, knowing it means war.

"But why is it necessary to give the allies anything? The British Empire alone covers one fourth of the earth's surface. It has the richest domains in the world—all sending dividends and resources home to London . . .

"Why then this premature and exaggerated propaganda to make gifts or loans to the Allies? The fact of the matter is that the wormongers in the United States recognize these are important steps that must first be taken if they are to get this country into the war." (Congressional Record, Third Session, 76th Congress).

You, Anglophile warriors in your war dress, forget that the United States is not a British colony. The student body of this country wants no repetition of the last imperialist war: 126,000 American boys killed, 234,000 American boys wounded, and 360,000 total casualties. You, war-mongers, "HIT THE ROAD!"

War's Week

By JIM WOOLDRIDGE

The expected axis movement into the Balkans came this week with the opening of hostilities between Italy and Greece. Preventing Russia and Turkey from aiding the Greeks are several divisions of German troops placed on the Polish and Rumanian frontier.

The Italo-Greek conflict began with border clashes in Italy's Albania. The Rome press reported frills, to Mary Cavanaugh Scott and Billy McKenna this week. The grapevine has them more than slightly devoted.

And heartiest congrats to Anne Caskey and Jack Cowgill. A star-sappire on her left hand leaves no doubt as to their intentions. The date isn't yet, but it's not too soon to offer all conventional, and sincere, felicitations.

If cominghome means what homecoming means at Kentucky, there would be a lot of parents disillusioned in their off-spring. Good luck to the Wildcats—if they win, we celebrate—if they don't, we mourn. You can't lose—

Louise McGoldrick, former U.K. student and last year's Queen of the Cow college is back in town to stay. She was seen at the dance last Saturday with Wayne McConnell.

Also at the dance was Rosalee Humphrey, beauty from Cincinnati escorted by Priest Kemper and blond Pat Hanauer, who made herself conspicuous by dancing minus her shoes through out the evening.

New Yorkers Jode DiCicoma and Josepha Famularo focused the dance crowd's attention with a scintillating exhibition of the Lindy Hop, famed Yankee Jitterbug number. Looking at it from an impartial side, we believe this little dance has it all over our own floor scorch-

Kendall Case Recommendations Are Approved By Legislature

Judicial Body Will Receive Facts, Determine Action

Acting on eight counts of the Student Standards committee charging George Herman Kendall with mismanagement of the former Student's Cooperative association, the Student legislature yesterday unanimously approved four recommendations of the committee, and referred the findings and records of the investigation to the SGA judicial committee for further action.

Based on general and overlapping charges of direct appropriation of coop money, "discrimination," "general mismanagement," "collecting of money for books without returning either money or books," the Standards committee submitted four recommendations:

- 1) That the present so-called cooperative be declared null and void.
- 2) That the student body be advised to use good judgment before joining any organization which has not been approved by the Student legislature or the University senate.
- 3) That the student legislature appoint a committee, composed of both faculty and students, to investigate the sentiment on this campus in regard to any cooperative enterprise; if the committee finds a desire on the part of the student body for the establishment of a cooperative book store or any other enterprise, it be asked to study the procedure of cooperation on other campuses, and report its findings and recommendations to the Board of Trustees.
- 4) That George Herman Kendall be judged guilty of the foregoing facts and that the judicial committee take whatever action with respect to this matter that it deems advisable.

Kendall appeared at both Tuesday's and yesterday's legislative meetings. At first he said it is "now a coop but organized," and challenged anyone to show one instance where coop members had not received coop benefits. For his refusal to turn over records, Kendall declared he "should be authorized by the coop before turning over records."

Goes To President

After judicializing the records and recommendations, the judicial committee will report their opinion to Acting President Thomas Poe Cooper, who makes the final decision. Following yesterday's meeting, Kendall, coop business manager, told the Kernel that he planned "to appeal the case to the president and the Board of Trustees."

The committee's recommendations were read and discussed Tuesday by the legislature at an intense session, but further debate was not tabled until yesterday. After preliminary discussion, the report and findings were approved. However, several legislators expressed the belief that when the case is submitted to the judicial committee, reopening of the entire investigation appears imminent.

As the present investigation is a precedent setting incident as to procedure, a thorough study of what

'I'm Willing To Do My Part' -2441, First Student Picked

"I'm perfectly willing to go and do my part," declared William Bailey Cherry, graduate student in the bacteriology department, the first University man whose number was pulled from the goldfish bowl in Washington.

Cherry's number, which was 2441 in the local assignment, was call No. 34 in the Selective Service draft lottery. Of the 33 numbers first drawn only three of them applied to local board No. 42 registrants. These three were held by non-students.

Graduate Student Cherry said last night that he would like to be assigned to the sanitary corps, where he could continue his work in bacteriology. He hopes to obtain deferment until June so that he can complete his graduate work here. Having graduated from Western State Teachers' college, where ROTC training is not compulsory, Cherry has had no military training.

Following the Cherry-number extraction by three capsules, the second number held by a University student was drawn from the 8,863 gelatin containers. Jack Walter Bernheim, arts and sciences junior, received the 37th designation. The number assigned to him here was 2563.

Although he has asked the War department to grant him a second lieutenant's commission "I'll be glad to take my chances with the rest," Bernheim has had considerable military experience, including ROTC instruction and military camp training.

Draft officials, estimated only those holding numbers within the first 1,500 could reasonably expect to be called by next June 15. Besides the first two students, only two other men are known to hold numbers within this group, a Kernel check-up revealed yesterday. They are Esten Spears, engineering senior, with a 1088 national number, and Granville Clarg, third-year law, who received No. 1497.

According to the Kernel investigation, Joe Johnson, a member of is constitutional procedure was aided.

Other business included the approval of the Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, to succeed the Vocational Guidance committee, which resigned, to conduct the Vocational Guidance conference here this year. A grant of $15 to the Union from the SGA fund as co-operation in the Alumni Homecoming open house Saturday was authorized. Motion to elect a sergeant-at-arms from the legislators at the next meeting was endorsed.

RATLIFF TO LEAD NYA DISCUSSION

State Young People To Meet Today

Dr. Margaret Ratliff, of the psychology department, will lead one of the discussion groups at the State-wide NYA assembly to be held today in Louisville.

The assembly, which will be the first of its kind in Kentucky, will have as a general theme "Youth Looks Forward to Jobs," and will give young people an opportunity to talk over current youth problems with businessmen and educators. It is expected that almost every NYA project in the state will be represented. Attendance, however, will not be limited to NYA employees as other interested young people also have been invited.

After a tour of the Louisville NYA projects, schools, and offices of the Kentucky State Employment service will be divided into eleven discussion groups for the afternoon's activities. At 7:30 p.m., the entire assembly will hold a general meeting featuring a talk by Mr. Aubrey Williams, National Administrator of National Youth Administration, reports on the afternoon activities a community sing.

Clark Goes South

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, associate professor of history, will be in Charleston, S. C., November 5 to 7, at a meeting of the Southern Historical association. Doctor Clark is a member of the executive council of the association.

Alpha Tau Omega, was closest to the last numbers drawn. There were less than 500 capsules remaining in the goldfish bowl, when his number, 8569, was pulled out.

The local draft boards have requested registrants to wait for official notification of numbers, instead of swarming into local headquarters.

Dean Will Ask For Course In War Material Inspection

By HAROLD WINN

Dean James H. Graham of the engineering college will leave Lexington the latter part of this week for Washington, where he will present a plan to officials which, if accepted, will provide an eight-week college short course for training inspectors in munition factories, tank factories and other war material plants, at the University.

The plan is a reply to a letter, received by Dean Graham, which proposed to use a recent congressional appropriation of $9,000,000 to be granted to colleges to aid them in setting up courses on an engineering level.

In every department which might speed up national defense, inquiries have been made to determine the department's availability in case of need. Among these, the physics department received questionnaires from the National Resources Planning board regarding their specialization.

Manganese, Tin Problem

Already the University laboratories are working on the problem of creating usable manganese and tin from the low-grade ore which is found in the Western hemisphere. As most of the supply is now controlled by the axis powers, this has become of prime importance in national defense.

Included in the research will be the making up of metals from manganese, iron and carbon. From these alloys, it is expected, the manufacture of airplanes will be helped.

While this work is being carried on, the building on the aeronautical-motors laboratory on Rose street, will go forward speedily now that a $70,000 supplement gift has been received through the Viking Foundation from Axel-Wenner-Gren, Swedish millionaire industrialist.

According to Prof. A. J. Meyer, plans for a complete laboratory within a set budget could now be made. Neither plans nor estimates were completed on July 2, when the first gift of $80,000 was made, but with the last gift on October 18, plans will be rounded out.

The building, which is expected to be completed around December 1 and ready for use on January 1, will be used to test all types of internal-combustion engines. The structure will be a one-story brick and glass building.

PHI ALPHA DELTA PLEDGES THREE

Moloney, Rowady, Evans Are Named

Phi Alpha Delta, national honorary legal fraternity, pledged three students yesterday afternoon in Lafferty hall. They were George W. Evans, Richmond, second year student; Donald Moloney, Lexington, second year; and Michael A. Rowady, Winchester, third year.

Conducting the formal pledge services were the five fraternity officers—Harry Roberts, Justice; Roy Tooms, vice-justice; Kelly Clore, clerk; W. L. Matthews, treasurer; and M. R. Shelbourne, marshal.

The 15 active members of the group pledged these three, and five earlier in the year, on a basis of scholarship, leadership, and character.

Lawyers inducted previously this semester are Jack Heath, Birmingham, third year; Burnis Martin, Hindman, second year; Robert Sweeney, Paducah, second year; John Clark, Maysville, second year; and Virgil Beasley, Lexington, third year.

Democratic Voters May Register

Registration of all eligible Democratic voters who must cast ballots outside Fayette county in Tuesday's election will be held opposite the Union information desk today through Monday, Marvin Tinch, president of the University Roosevelt-for-President club, announced yesterday.

All registrants will be requested to state whether they have a car and plan to drive to their home precincts and how many passengers they would be able to take with them, Tinch said.

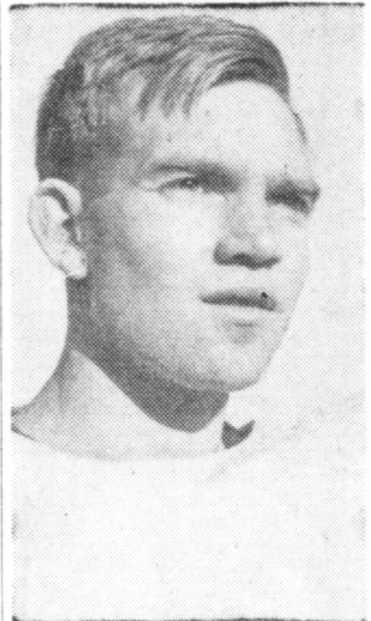

According to the plans all students voting in the same or neighboring sections can make the trip in a group and at a minimum expense. Tinch stated that as yet he is not certain that a part of the expense can be defrayed by the Roosevelt club.

TWO COEDS AND A CANINE

"Gotta piece of candy for a poor dog who ain't et in three days?"

A Dog's Life Isn't Bad At All Says Pete, The Campus Collie

By BOB AMMONS

That old saw about leading a dog's life is just so much Ken-L-Ration, Pete was saying the other day. And he has his proof with him—about 30 pounds of it.

Pete, also called "Honey", "Friday", and "Shut-up, dammit!" by denizens of McVey hall, is the over-stuffed tan and white collie that spends most of his time loafing and mooching around the Campus book store. A campus character for over four years, he is as much a landmark as the flagpole or Officer Kelly.

Pete has waxed fat—very fat—in his capacity as official campus pet and number one moocher and is a familiar sight shuffling in and out of the post office and book store—demanding, rather than begging, a bite of candy or ice cream sucker. For the canine Wimpy seems to feel that he has a constitutional right to part of all things edible coming from the book store.

He Gets Results

And, sadly enough for his avoirdupois, Pete's oft-rehearsed tactics usually bring results. Shaking his shaggy head, rolling around on the floor, and staring defiantly at the expected tidbit usually end in his being fed. And so the dog who came to the campus sleek and shapely has developed a middle-age spread.

Not all of Pete's activities have taken on the air of commercialism, however, for he still seems obliged to allow any student or professor—candy or no candy—to afford himself the honor of scratching the dog's head or pulling his ears. And, as self-appointed Paul Revere of the campus, Pete usually manages to sound off every hour or two, just to notify the campus that he is still there.

Things are not always rosy, though, Pete can testify. During summer school pickings are mighty thin, in fact, that, according to Jimmy Morris, book store manager, Pete has to stand on the front steps of McVey hall and whine for passing students to come in and buy something.

Although the life of the party while on the campus, Pete is just a plain old dog at home, according to his owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stone, 373 Linden Walk. He still has enough appetite after a full day's mooching to eat dog food and bones, and sleeps in the basement like any ordinary dog. But the first sounds of students passing in the morning remind Pete of his awaiting public, and, in spite of all the precautions taken to keep him at home, he usually sneaks away to school.

The present "campus dog" is one of a long line of Canine Joe Colleges. Terry, the mixed wire-haired and fox terrier belonging to Professor Downing of the mathematics department, is less sociable but has a longer campus attendance record. For eight years he has accompanied the professor to his office, but usually stays quietly under his desk and does not wander about the campus.

Rebel, a shepherd dog belonging to Dean P. P. Boyd, for four years filled the place now held by Pete. In fact, it was but two weeks after Dean Boyd's dog ceased coming to the book store that the present collie appeared. There have been numerous tales, some of doubtful veracity, circulated concerning the respective merits of Rebel and Boy, President McVey's scotty, and in the hey-day of controversy, few weeks went by without a new account of some remarkable deed of one of the two dogs.

Carnegie Musicale Set For Tonight

Works of Wagner, Mendelssohn, Puccini, Handel, and Vivaldi will be played at the weekly Carnegie musicales at 8 p. m. tonight in the Union music room.

Opening the program will be "Rienzi Overture" by Richard Wagner, followed by Antonio Vivaldi's "Concerto Grosso in D Minor" from "Estro Armonico"; Handel's "Sonata No. 6 in E Major"; Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," and Puccini's "Un Bel di Vedremo" from "Madame Butterfly."

Running Wild

By ROY STEINFORT

Should Kentucky absorb Alabama's Crimson Tide tomorrow. Grandpa Snazy will chuck his crutches aside and shriek out a war-cry the like of which hasn't been heard since the Civil War, and end-up twenty yards ahead of Noah Mullins in a dash down a football field; your observer would send his mother-in-law a box of chocolate bon bons, and then bounce a bit of Irish confetti off Officer Kelly's head.

Kentucky's Chances Slim

Kentucky's chances with the boys from the land of boll weevils and hominy grits are pretty slim. True, indeed, Kentucky on paper is a stronger team than last season's eleven, which made the Southerners' Tide look like a backwash from a rowboat with a 7-7 deadlock. But this time last year, dear friends, Coach Kirwan had his two-team system working to a fine point. They were riding the crest of a five game winning streak and 'Bama wasn't loaded for them.

Tomorrow's game, however, will be an entirely different story. Kirwan has forced to abandon his two-team system earlier in the season when the hospital list mounted to a new high, and, today, the genial Kentucky coach can call roll standing in the middle of a hospital ward.

Both Tackles Out

His starting tackles, both seniors, "Sully" Jacobs and Captain John Eibner, will watch the game from an advantageous bench point of view, both nursing knee injuries. Since both of these boys are seniors, it would have been their last appearance on Stoll field in a Kentucky uniform. Fullbacks Bob Herbert and Claude Hammond are, as footballers say, "racked-up". Hammond has been sidelined for a month with a dislocated elbow, while Rough Robert has a knocked-down shoulder and a sprained ankle.

Soph tackle Clark Woods, who played a great game against Georgia will see only part-time duty because of a stomach ailment. Returning to the wars this week after a long layoff is Hoot Combs, senior halfback, who was benched because of a dislocated elbow that was a twin brother of Hammond.

Johnson Turns In Neat Job

The Kentucky coaches have found another tackle to take the place of the ailing Captain Eibner—at least in body. Six foot, six inch Clyde Johnson, who up to last week had been buried with the Z club will fill in the gap. Johnson, playing his first game of college ball last week against Georgia, turned in a neat job. When this big fellow lets fly with a tackle he resembles a Queen Mary floating through space. His big chassis will aid the Kentucky defense in plugging up the gaps in the line.

Eddy Fritz had a quick change of mind about Walt Posey after he had retired to the Kentucky bench for several minutes down at Athens last week. As you probably remember Eddy and Walt exchanged blows in the third quarter of the game and Eddy was banished from the game, Kentucky being penalized half the distance to the goal.

The first observable difference between the two linemen burst forth with the mild aspects of a "battle royal" when Posey picked himself up from a pile and began to beat on top of Eddy's headgear. Fritz, although he is the smallest lineman on the Kentucky squad, blazed back as Posey with a choice assortment of rights and lefts. The officials broke it up quickly and rushed Eddy to the sidelines, allowing Posey to continue in the game.

After Fritz had cooled his heels for several minutes on the bench he looked up at Posey, the biggest man on the Georgia squad, and said "Boy, you're not for me."

14 UK SENIORS WILL BE PLAYING LAST GAME HERE

'Bama Game To Be Final Appearance On Stoll Field

When Kentucky's blue-clad warriors trot onto Stoll field tomorrow in an effort to gain their first victory in twenty years over the Crimson Tide from the University of Alabama, 14 seniors will be making their final appearances before a home crowd.

Of these fourteen, two will probably be singing their swan song from the bench. These are captain John Eibner, who injured his knee on the first play of the Georgia game, and Ed "Sully" Jacobs, who injured his knee in practice before the George Washington contest.

These fourteen performers, who as sophomores two years ago saw a powerful Crimson Tide eleven swamp them by a score of 26 to 6, will face an entirely different situation tomorrow. From a weak outfit, which in 1938 lost seven consecutive games they have been transformed into a powerful aggregation that is entering tomorrow's game on even terms with the once-dreaded powerhouse from Tuscaloosa.

Graduating will be Captain John Eibner, Walter Reid, Ed Jacobs, Bob Palmer, Emmett Willoughby, Eddie Fritz, Joe Bailey, Jim Hardin, Harry Denham, Phil Scott, "Dutch" Ishmael, "Hoot" Combs, and Dave Zoeller.

Crippled Wildcats To Be Underdogs Tomorrow

RATING SYSTEMS SHOW CONFLICT IN PREDICTIONS

Williamson Picks Tide, Litkenhous Favors Big Blue

If you want to bet on the Kentucky-Alabama homecoming football game tomorrow, the Williamson and the Litkenhous rating systems won't serve as an authority on which to base your choice of a winner.

Under the Williamson system the Cats are due to take a licking from the Crimson Tide, while Dr. Litkenhous figures the Big Blue is at least a touchdown better than the boys of Coach Frank Thomas.

Kentucky, according to the Litkenhous tables, has a rating of 89.4

which entitles them to 15th place in the nation, while Alabama's 82.1 Litkenhous rating places them in the country's 31st spot.

Ratings Reversed

The Williamson system does a complete about-face in these calculations ranking Alabama 49th in the United States with a figure of 88.0, while Kentucky is back to 56th position with 87.8. However, four other teams are tied with the Red Elephants at 88.0, and two other teams are knotted with the Wildcats with an 87.8 standing. This actually makes Kentucky rank next to Alabama in Mr. Williamson's table.

Kentucky's tie with the Georgia Bulldogs dropped them from 89.9 to 89.4 in the Litkenhous ratings, while Alabama, which did not play, retained the same position.

Last year both men gave Kentucky the advantage, and the game ended in a 7-7 deadlock. Williamson ranked the Cats 17th with a 91.8 score compared with Alabama's rank of 22nd with 89.8.

Gloom Invades UK Camp As Injury List Grows

Captain Eibner And Bob Herbert Out With Injuries

Word received here from Tuscaloosa reports that the boys from the land of "you-all" and "shoo-nuff" have displayed an abundance of spirit this week in stopping Kentucky's plays as depicted by the yearlings.

Only Two Injuries

Only two members of the Thomas outfit will be slowed down by injuries. Captain Hal Newman, who operates from a bank position, and halfback Russ Craft in all probability will not be in the starting lineup. Should Thomas need either one of them, however, they are in good enough condition to see some service.

Kentucky followers were given a slight rise in hopes this week with the word from Coach Kirwan, "that the Cats are somewhat improved." After getting off to a slow start this week, Kirwan's hands showed much more fire in the closing practice sessions. The eye-glassed Kirwan added, however, that they are still not up to snuff.

Playing in-and-out ball all season, the blue-jerseyed Kentuckians should hit top gear tomorrow. Snarling one week and squealing the next, they have turned in good performances every other week.

Opening against Baldwin-Wallace, they romped home to an easy win; the next week Xavier held them to a lean 13-0 victory; Washington and Lee, the next opponent, hit the Cats on the wrong week and so they were swamped 47-12; Vandy caught them squealing and deadlocked Kentucky 7-7; aroused by the Vandy tie, Kentucky blew hot against a powerful George Washington, tripping them 24-0, and proving the theory to a "T," the cats chilled last week against Georgia, emerging with another 7-7 draw.

According to past performances, Kentucky should be right tomorrow for Alabama. Despite all of this, the boys down on Main street are rating the Cats a seven point underdog, which is something new for the Kentuckians this year.

Although not totally disabled, several other members of the Big Blue team will be slowed down slightly by injuries. Bob Herbert, second string fullback, who can hit a line like a bolt of lightning, is nursing a sprained ankle; Joe Bailey, center, has a pair of bruised shins; end Phil Scott, is limping with a wrenched ankle; and Noah Mullins has a bruised right foot.

Regardless of Kentucky's injuries the homecoming gathering of an expected 16,000 persons will be treated to 60 minutes of fast and furious football with a chance of Kentucky emerging the victory on an upset. Don't forget, Vanderbilt had only 16 men the day she tied Kentucky 7-7 a few weeks back.

CAPT. JOHN EIBNER, '40
His team will try to stem Tide tomorrow, while he sits on the bench.

CAPT. PRIBBLE, '22
His team beat an overconfident Crimson Tide.

UK Won Homecoming Game Over Tennessee In 1925

Crowd Paraded, Tore Down Posts After Victory

By JIM WOOLDRIDGE
Alabama swept over Kentucky 31-0 in '25 and maintained its unbeaten record. On that hot afternoon in Birmingham a big, smart left end led the Wildcats off the field after their bruising game. The end of the season saw this team captain make an assistant coach. It was Ab Kirwan.

Kirwan and his teammates played a tough schedule that year and lost only two games, ending the season with an upset victory over Tennessee.

The Tennessee game on Thanksgiving was the homecoming engagement. Kentucky alumni were all over the stadium and when the game's final whistle sounded they joined the student body in one of the wildest demonstrations of football spirit seen in Lexington.

Ripping up the goal posts, seizing Tennessee banners, the revelers started a parade down Limestone. Traffic was stopped by the crowd which was estimated at five thousand. According to The Kernel files, flag poles at several public buildings were "borrowed" and Tennessee freshmen caps were "requested" by UK fraternity freshmen who were given premiums of fewer paddle strokes. No serious damage was reported, however.

Students Followed Team
Kentucky supporters followed the athletic teams everywhere in '25. When the Wildcats played Chicago on Stag field in the Windy City, the University halls were left bare.

A Kernel writer described the students leaving in numbers "comparative to the exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt." By automobile, Ford, and train they arrived in Chicago.

And on the sidelines of the gymnasium in Atlanta where Kentucky was playing in the Southern conference tournament, hundreds of Kentucky fans, "many of whom hopped" to the event and did not know how they were to return to Lexington, yelled like mad all during the contest. The Big Blue team lost to Mississippi A & M, dark horse of the tourney.

Captain Of Team That Beat Tide Gives Edge To 'Bama

Kentucky Veteran Reviews Only Win By Wildcat Team

Birkett Lee Pribble, captain of the only Kentucky team to ever best Alabama, fears that the Wildcat fair will prove to be no graveyard for the Red Elephants from down Birmingham way.

"If our boys were in A-1 physical condition, we might beat them," opined the stalwart, ex-Wildcat star of 1922, "but as things stand now Alabama has the edge." The team cannot be expected to flash its best brand of football with such bulwarks as Eibner, Jacobs, Herbert, and Hammond on the blitzkrieged list," he pointed out.

Only too willing to share the honor of having captained a Tide-conqueror with any Wildcat leader, Pribble does see one chance of bringing home the inflated bacon—whether or not the Cats "play over their heads." But again he bemoans the fact that Kentucky does not usually play over its head against Alabama. Against Tennessee, yes; but not Alabama.

He'll Be There

But, win or lose, Pribble, who still looks as if he could go in there and hold his own against the biggest and toughest, will be out there Saturday pulling for "our boys." He will be pulling for them just as he has done as a spectator since 1937, as a Wildcat coach from 1923 up to his resignation in 1937, and as a team member 18 years ago.

And, above all, Pribble will be pulling for another victory to sweeten the memories of that one and only conquest of Alabama in 1922. Although many years have elapsed, that memory still clings vividly in the subconscious recesses of Captain Pribble's mind.

Tells Of Victory

"It was a damp day," he reminisces, "and we faced a cocky, overconfident Alabama team, a team that had just smeared mighty Pennsylvania by a 9 to 7 count, a team that was undefeated. But we were not discouraged by the 'Bama prestige. We played 'em off their feet in the first half, worked the ball to the eight-yard line early in the second half, and from that point Bruce Fuller ran to the left, inside end, for a touchdown." After that, the Alabamians simply "lost their heads," resorted to a haphazard passing assault, and went down into a 6-0 defeat.

The very thing that defeated the Tide that day may be Kentucky's downfall Saturday, Pribble asserts. It was a hard charging line that smothered Alabama, he states, and the Crimson Tide's thundering herd may stampede Kentucky's speedy backs and rush her air bombardiers into the Red side of the ledger Saturday. Pribble was a block of granite in that '22 line, playing offensive guard and defensive center.

Thinks Kirwan Tops
Jovial and talkative, Pribble recalls that, if it had not been for the new conference ruling which barred freshmen participation on the varsity, Kentucky would have had one of the greatest teams in the nation in 1922.

One of those great freshmen was none other than Coach Ab Kirwan. "Why, Kirwan could have made anybody's team then," the Wildcat

by HART SCHAFFNER & MARX

Professional weight guessers kiss a cane goodbye when they're up against Saville Lounge. For this famous drape model, tailored by Hart Schaffner & Marx, is a gay deceiver and makes a handsome liar out of figures.

The coat is slightly longer than normal, the lapels fuller, and the trousers are cut generously at the knee and taper to the cuff. As a result of its scientific designing, this model creates a magnificent shoulder spread, breadth of chest, and narrower waist—all of which make heavy men look slimmer, thin men heftier—well-built men better than ever.

We have this remarkable drape model in a wide variety of patterns, colors and fabrics ready for your selection.

double checked fit

—is what you're assured when you buy any Hart Schaffner & Marx garment! For every suit or coat that carries the Trumpeter Label is scientifically designed and rigidly checked for fit first before it is ever allowed to leave the Hart Schaffner & Marx tailoring shops, and then again by our own skilled expert who ultimately measures you in our store!

'SHIPWRECK' KELLY, '30

BookStore Was Investigated, 'Shipwreck' Ran Wild In '30

By BUSH BROOKE

Fresh from three years' experience in the "roaring twenties," the Class of '31 rolled onto the campus in September 1930 loaded to the gun's and rarin' to go. Remember, Grads? That was the year when Kentucky was going to wipe up the Southern Conference with the its greatest team in history, when "Shipwreck" Kelly ran himself to fame on the gridiron, and when to cut a single class practically meant failure to graduate.

Everything happened that year. First, "Floppy" Forquer, grid captain and guard par excellence, refused his home county's nomination for sheriff, so he might return and lead the Big Blue in the gridiron wars. Kelly, "Barnacle Bill" Colker, and Ellis Johnson were pigskin demons while Carey Spicer, vet halfback, tripped the rosy path at Joyland.

S. A. "Daddy" Boles said the U.S.A. would take care of "ticket scalpers" and ticket book dispensers. "Daddy" is still there punching; Tennessee's Volunteers simmered on the Southern Conference grid for failure to observe league practice rules. Men's Student Council and University Senate had just completed an investigation of the Campus Book store, and President Frank L. McVey okayed "The purchase of a specially constructed cash register." Then—Kentucky 37, Sewanee 0.

Water Usage Curtailed
University officials threatened to discontinue school unless the student body did not curtail water usage. The drought of 1930 had shrunk the Lexington reservoir to a mere trickle. Gathering speed: Kentucky 57, Maryville 0; faster, Kentucky 33, W & L 14; downhill, Kentucky 47, Virginia 0; Then, crash—Alabama 19, Kentucky 0.

Capt. Forquer stamped himself as one of the South's best linemen as Duke beat the 'Cats, 14-7. Back in stride, Kentucky 26, V.M.I. 0. Two years military training was made compulsory, and cadets were issued spanking new uniforms. S.A. E's led the ATO's in the intramural brawl. Thanksgiving day B.C. (Beef Cafe): Tennessee 8, Kentucky 0.

Wesley Carter, A & S frosh, violated advice of Good Samaritan physicians by leaving his bed to attend Monday classes after tonsillectomy Saturday to keep from having three credits added to his graduation requirements under the Senate absence ruling. Then the fun began. Sigma Chi's beat the Bradley Hall Wrecking Crew for the intramural football crown, 6-2. Adolph Rupp, fresh from Kansas, and his first Kentucky basketball team floored Georgetown, 67-19. "Chick" Sale scored 19 points.

Union Plan Okayed
President McVey recommended the construction of a student union, engineering, and physical education buildings. Pershing Rifles chapter succeeded the Minute Men. Mary Virginia Willis, Tridelt, was selected as Kentucky's most beautiful girl by Earl Carroll, New York dramatic producer, in the annual Kentuckian beauty contest. The athletic council named "Spinner" Campbell of Alabama 19, Kentucky 0" fame, as Harry Gamage's backfield coach. Sale of used books was announced by Jimmy Morris, new Book store manager.

Cary Spicer scuttled the Vandy Commodores with 27 points as Kentucky won 42-37. "Fuzzy" SuKy Wildcat mascot, died "because of Kentucky's football record" and a Louisiana cat was imported. DTD let contract for new house. Alumni gym was a madhouse as 4,000 fans saw the 'Cats dump Georgia Tech, 38-24. Dr. McVey forebode evil for "theater rushers," following the spree after the Washington and Lee game. Alice Bruner, DDD, was elected May queen. The 1931 Stroller Review was a honey.

Ten basketeers, en route to the Southern Conference tourney at Atlanta, were suspected by a woman of being federal prisoners. Burly Coach Rupp was mistaken for a guard. "I am absolutely certain that there is less drinking in college fraternities in America than in any other type of American organization," said E. R. Morio of Washington State, as a Senior assembly.

Sorority Track Meet
Led by "Shipwreck" Kelly, undefeated in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, Kentucky thimble closed the track season unbeaten with successive wins over Vanderbilt, Sewanee, Tennessee, Louisville, and Cincinnati. Sigma Chi's won intramural crown. Kappa Kappa Gamma won the first inter-sorority track meet. The Kampus Kat revealed the attempt of "Papa" Harry Gamage to "break into print." Big Blue dropped the Southern conference title to Maryland 29-27. Lady Lack smiled on the Liners with 40 seconds to play with the 'Cats ahead, 25-27. George Yates, suffering with acute influenza, played the final game and was chosen all-Southern center.

MULLINS TIED FOR CONFERENCE SCORING HONORS

Georgia Game Tally Keeps Him On Par With Merle Hapes

By spearing a 27-yard pass from Eral Allen to score Kentucky's lone touchdown against the Georgia Bulldogs, Noah Mullins, fleet Kentucky halfback, remained in a tie with Mississippi's Merle Hapes for first place in the Southeastern conference scoring race. Both have 42 points.

The Ole Miss ace contributed his six-pointer on a four-yard plunge against the Arkansas Razorbacks. Hapes' teammate, Junie Hovious, holds down the third slot with five touchdowns and seven points after touchdowns. Spencer, Alabama's chief offensive threat, and Dodson, Louisiana State halfback, are knotted for fourth place with six touchdowns apiece.

Mullins' tally also kept him at the top of the list of state teams. His 42 points give him a two point margin over "Chuck" Schuster, Eastern Teacher's star end.

There are 764,565 cardholders in New York City public library system, which includes Manhattan, Bronx, and Richmond.

Ignition-type rectifiers are the latest machines developed to change alternating into direct current.

In '20 Frosh Were Required To Attend All Athletic Meets

Homecoming Game Lost To Centre By 49-0 Score

By PAT HANAUER

Editorials in the 1940 Kernel advocating meeting the returning football teams by students are not advancing a new and untried idea. In 1920 the University Senior Court decreed "All freshmen . . . shall be required to go in a body to all trains on which the football team is arriving or departing, and shall be required to attend all football rallies, bonfires, parades and other athletic meetings or celebrations held in the interest of football or other athletics, and partake in all snake dances and other demonstrations between halves."

Other rules for freshmen were "No freshman shall break a senior at any dance" and "No member of the student body shall intrude on the special privileges heretofore enjoyed only by seniors. These privileges shall consist of wearing corduroys; carrying canes or swagger sticks; wearing mustaches; or appearing on the campus uncovered or without a coat."

Cats Lost To Centre

The football season of 1920 was only moderately successful: the team won four games, lost three and tied one. The opening game was a 60-0 victory over Southwestern Presbyterian university, and the homecoming game a 49-0 loss to

Centre, "a team that is known to be the strongest in the country."

Games were written up by Gerald Griffin, sports editor, and later, in succession, managing editor, editor-in-chief for 1921-1922, instructor in journalism, and at present in charge of athletic publicity at the University.

The basketball team won the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship possibly because the team, with the football squad, acquired a live wild cat, named "Jim Server", for the captain-elect of the football team, to use as a mascot. The entire student body met the team at the Southern station following its triumphal return from a successful season, losing only one game, and that to Centre by one goal.

Student Union Formed

An enrollment of 1221 students from 24 states marked a 20 percent increase over the previous high.

Twenty-five senior men including Griffin and S. A. "Daddy" Boles of the athletic department, formed a Student Union, the nucleus of the present organization.

With two new social fraternities on the campus, Phi Kappa Tau and Triangle, a "Royal Order of Fish" was formed to promote better comradeship among fraternity men. The Greek women promptly retaliated with an organization of "Tadpoles."

Astoria, Ore., was founded in 1811 as a fur-trading post by John Jacob Astor.
